SALT LAKE'S BID FOR BIG BOUT

(Special to The Herald-Republican.)

New York, Nov. 27 .- Only a few days must elapse before the selection of a club to hold the Johnson-Jeffries battle, and still the race among the promoters from all over the country is more uncertain than ever. The men who are already on the ground know no more about their chances of securing the match than a whirling Dervish knows about an opera hat. Each one must come prepared to meet anything in the shape of a surprise that the others may attempt to slip over.

The most recent arrival in the game has set the 'Frisco contingent

Worry about such small details as location, railroads, population, etc. If he wants a thing he goes about it in his characteristic mild way, and usually gets it.

His path in holding the Gans-Nelson fight at Goldfield was beset with all kinds grave.

Salt Lake, however, is getting into the game right and is entitled to be considered seriously in the bidding. It sent Rickard here with the goods and evidently means business, and it has made itself a contender—the only one to be feared by the San Francisco promoters.

The name of Tex Rickard has not been mentioned very often in connection with the big bout. No one thought him to be back in the fighting game seriously. He has kept himself in seclusion since he pulled off the memorable Gans-Nelson fight at Goldfield.

Yesterday he was in Philadelphia with E5,000 in his kick, which he is willing to deposit if the big men award his club the fight. Rickard proposes to hold the fight in Salt Lake City. He says he has arranged every detail with the authorities and guarantees that there will be no interference if he gets the match.

Salt Lake is not looked upon with much favor as a locality for the go. Its pugilistic location is a little too uncertain. But Tex Rickard is a man who does not worry about such small details as locality and the fight and the fight is a man who does not worry about such small details as locality and the fight and the fight is stored to be sold the field, used to clear $20,000 a month. Besides that, Rickard owned enough mines to make King Solomon roll over in his grave.

Salt Lake, however, is getting into the general field in the proposed to be considered.

Chicago, Nov. 27 .- Enter George Tebeau with a scheme for increasing batting in You've often longed to see more slugging, haven't you? You don't get much excitement out of these pitching duels with a 1 to 0 score.

You'd rather see the sluggers hammer the horsehide to the far end of the lot.

There it's out. What is your idea of Tebeau's scheme? The rules say that the ball shall not weigh more than five and a quarter ounces and shall measure not more than nine and a quarter inches in diameter. The moment you increase the dimensions you put a tremendous handi.

The third—have ten men in the game half, however, again put the B. Y. U. in the lead. Coach Bennion expressed himself as far from satisfied with the work of his men and said that if they were to win the state championship they must get down to better team work.

This very fact may be a good omen.

Last winter we were being handed bouquets all along the American League circuit. The team was picked to have a good chance for a first division berth, and what happened? It finished last, after one of the most disastrous seasons in the history of Washington baseball.

There was hardly a department on the team which did not fall down lamentably. The pitcher failed to do environmentably. tably. The pitcher failed to do anything like the work of the year before, the hitting went all to pleces, and the effect of a miserable start took from the players that spirit which counts so much in all athletic contests.

This time we do not expect anything from the team. With a better break of luck it would win a greater percentage of games than it did last season, but after all it is hard to see how it can write out of lest place. Now it can wriggle out of last place. Now it is just possible that there is a surprise in store for the fans. Mayhap the team will make a much better showing than is anticipated, just as it made a worse one than could be dreamed of last season. With the closing of the football season the athletes of the state university are beginning to look forward to the basket ball season, which is now close at hand, and the track season which always made its opponents hustle to beat it, and with a little more batting the could be dreamed of last season.

McAleer will be very apt to start the season with the same team Cantillon left here, and that was not such a bad lot at that. True, it did not win with any amount of regularity, but it was a team which always made its opponents hustle to beat it, and with a little more batting. CAREER AS UNIVERSITY

With the trip to Cedar City next Saturday, where the eleven of the branch normal school will be met, the 1909 football season for the University of Utah will end. The appearance on the Cedar City gridiron Saturday will be the last for Captain Tillie Olsen as a university player, and the last game for J. H. Maddock as coach.

During the six years that he acted as coach, Mr. Maddock did worlds of good for Utah football, and under his guidance the best football teams -elevens that ranked on even terms with the best in the west-that the University has had have been produced.

Coach Maddock yesterday stated that it was his last year as coach. For a time it was hoped that the arrangement proposed by the athletic board of control, whereby a football coach might be employed for the football season alone, would tempt Mr. Maddock to get in the harness next year. He says, however, that the business which he takes up in Idaho next summer will demand all his time.

Un. Despite this fact, Coach Joe Maddock, who, in the six years he has been at the university, has always had a winning team, succeeded in whipping a team into shape which won the Utah championship and according to many football critics is the fastest team in the intermountain region.

1910 Prospects Good.

The question of Maddock's successor as coach will be a live one from now on at the university. About a dozen applica-tions are now in. It is understood that the regents want a man to handle physical culture and athletics, but with the difwere played were:

Utah, 38; Ogden High school, 0.:
Utah, 28; Utah Aggies, 0.
Colorado Miners, 14; Utah, 8.
Fort Douglas Soldiers, 5; Utah, 20.

With the material developed on the team of this year Utah will have a team the coming year which should take the Rocky Mountain championship. The men who will be back the coming year and who played on this year's team are; Shores, left end, weight 167; Home, left tackle, weight 197; Dave Olsen, left guard, al culture and athletics, but with the difficulty great to secure such a man, it looks like a separate instructor for gymnasium work and a coach for outdoor athletics will be employed.

Season a Success.

The close of the football season, while the eleven has not had as many hard games at it has had other years, finds the outcome one of the best in the history of the school. Utah scored 162 points against 19 scored against her. The scores of each game in the order in which they were played were:

Utah, 38; Ogden High school, 0. Utah, 28; Utah Aggies, 0. Colorado Miners, 14; Utah, 8.

Plays Branch Normal.

Fort Douglas Soldiers, 5; Utah, 20.
Utah, 46; Montana Aggies, 0.
Utah, 22; Utah Aggies, 0.
The reason for not securing more games with outside teams was twofold—the athletic squabble between the schools of Colorado and on account of the high rates of transportation.
When the football season opened, Utah was very short of men who had had experience on the gridiron. The only veterans of the original lineup were: V. Olsen, captain; Home, left tackle; Walker, right end, and Nielsen were substitutes on the team of last year, so that at the opening of the season Utah practically had only two veterans in her line-

SAFETY SAVES EAGLES' TEAM FROM SHUTOUT

In an exciting game of football yesterday the Stars won from the Eagles for the second time, by the score of 23 to 2. This makes eleven games the Stars have played, with but two scores against them Fuccy and Brinkley both made runs for the length of the field to touchdowns. With but two minutes to play in the last half, Heusser, after carrying the ball over the line, fumbled it; and Hudson fell upon the ball for a safety, saving the Eagles from a shut-out. Lineup: out, Lin
